

BUSINESS ALIGNMENT

The Enterprise/Security Risk Alignment Program

Do you have a new boss or are you new to the organization? Is your organization taking on a new line of business? Is there new executive management? Is your organization going through third-party reviews? Do you feel executive management does not understand what or why Security does what it does?

The greater the alignment between the goals of the business units and the security programs developed to support these goals, the greater the success of the company and the CSO.

How can SEC help?

- Review your current program.
- Conduct key stakeholder interviews to lay the foundation for creating influence in areas of risks and security.
- Provide strategic planning support that aligns with the future direction of the company.
- Provide a report with suggestions for enhancing the security program and closing any gaps.

Transformation

Security is able to influence its stakeholders to a greater appreciation of the value of proactive security programs to the company.

The Security Executive Council (SEC) is the only research and advisory firm that specializes in corporate security and is comprised of former security executives – we understand the issues and work to solve obstacles to success.
